The DVC Limited represents the latest custom quality innovations in STI design. Performance minded slide cuts enhance slide control, minimize forward recoil, and increase cycle rate. Added slide porting on the top and sides controls muzzle jump, and blends well with the overall DVC Limited appearance. The 5-inch bull barrel is finished with Titanium Nitride for wear resistance and improved lubricity. Responsive handling and control is had by way of specialty texturing done by Extreme Shooters to give the shooter enhanced grip and improved ergonomics. The sights are designed for quick reads and can be easily adjusted.

Argentina - Bersa (Firestorm)	Bersa (Firestorm) Mod. 83	Pistol	9x17 Browning Short (Kurz, Corto. .380 ACP, Auto Webley) Very popular pistol because it is compact, accurate, reliable, inexpensive, and an excellent choice for self-defense and concealed carry. The stainless steel and nickel-plated versions were manufactured from 1989 to 1994. The Model 83 replaced the 383 DA in 1989, discarding an external slide catch in favor of an internal system:	B5	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>

Belgium - Browning (FN Herstal)	Browning FN Forty-Nine (FN 49)	Pistol	9 mm Parabellum (9x19 NATO, Para, Luger) It is recoil-operated, locked breech firearm that uses improved Browning linkless locking principle. The gun is striker fired with availability of re-striking the misfired cartridge simply with another trigger pull. The striker is completely at rest until the trigger is pulled, so gun is safe. It has no external safety switches or decockers for simplicity to use. China	Type 49 (PPSh41)	Submachine gun Recoil action	7,62 Tokarev (7,62x25 TT, 7,63 Mauser, .30 Mauser Automatic) The PPSH-41 submachine gun was one of the most mass produced weapons of its type of World War II. The PPSH had a simple blow-back action, a box or drum magazine, and used the 7.62x25mm pistol round. It was made with metal stampings to ease production, and its chrome-lined chamber and bore helped to make the gun very low-maintenance in combat settings. R Para (Le Militaire, R9)	Pistol	9x19 Parabellum, .22 Short, .32 ACP The R Series was a departure from all previous M.A.B. pistols, which had been based on Browning designs. The Model R has an external hammer. Earlier M.A.B. pistols were designed to lock open after the last round was fired, whereas the Model R was so designed, and when a magazine was inserted the Model R would also close the breech and chamber a round.	B5	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> <input checked="" type="checkbox"/>

Germany - Walther	Walther Mauser Mod. 896 C96 "Broomhandle"	Pistol	9 mm Parabellum, .45 ACP, 7,62 Tokarev (7,63 Mauser) The main characteristics of the C96 are the integral box magazine in front of the trigger, the long barrel, the wooden shoulder stock which can double as a holster and the handle shaped like the end of a broom's handle that earned it the nickname "Broomhandle" among Anglophone speakers. The Mauser C96 are considered one of the first personal defense weapons	A2	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>

Germany - Walther	Walther Mod. 1 (No. 1) (variant 2 & 3)	Pistol	6,35 mm Browning (6,35x15,5 .25 ACP, .25 Auto, Automatic Colt) The design is based on the 1900 Steyr-Mannlicher, with a fixed barrel and an open-top slide with sides that extend forward to enclose a recoil spring located beneath the barrel. Unusual features of the gun include a nearly full-length barrel sleeve, a piston-shaped sear fitted into a cylinder in the rear of the frame, and a cross-bolt safety that locks the sear.	B5	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> <input type="checkbox"/> <input type="checkbox"/> <input type="checkbox"/> <input checked="" type="checkbox"/>

Germany - Walther	Walther Mod. 2 (No. 2)	Pistol	6,35 mm Browning (6,35x15,5 .25 ACP, .25 Auto, Automatic Colt) The early Model 2 had an unusual pop-up rear sight that served as a loaded chamber indicator, and a small front sight dovetailed into the slide. These were eliminated in later production, most likely because the loaded chamber indicator was complicated and expensive to manufacture, The Walther Model 2 and Model 5 are essentially the same gun.	B5	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> <input type="checkbox"/> <input type="checkbox"/> <input type="checkbox"/> <input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
